

The Transfiguration

Matthew 17:1-13

God's changes can be surprising.

I wonder...

- If it was hard for the disciples to not tell anyone what they saw.
- What God's voice sounds like.
- How the disciples would have made dwellings (tents).

A Surprising Change

Mrs. Wilson didn't know what to expect when she said she would teach an after-school theater class. She didn't know if kids would join or if they would like it. And she certainly didn't expect Josh to sign up! He was the quietest kid in her class. At least he loved making stuff and was good at art, she thought. She figured Josh would be great at making props and painting backdrops with the rest of the scenery crew. And just as she expected, he was.

What Mrs. Wilson didn't expect was what happened when Josh got up on the stage to stand in for another kid who was sick that day. He belted out all of the lines perfectly, and boy, could he sing! He changed from a quiet kid who didn't talk much to a total ham! It was like he became a totally different person when he got on the stage. Mrs. Wilson found a part for Josh right away.

The day of their performance Mrs. Wilson watched the kids in the audience as they watched Josh. She could tell that they were amazed at what they saw in Josh, too.
